Official Paper of Cochise Co.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1899.

The gold combination and monopolies may be able to control a number of the principal leaders of Tammany Hall, in New York City, but it is stated on good authority that more than ninety percent of the voters in that organization are for Bryan and the Chicago platform.

The great gold combination that holds bonds and mortgages against the nations and peoples of the earth to the amount of one hundred and fifty billion dollars, and who profit by money becoming scarce and dear, have discounted the increased production of gold by extending the gold standard into Asia. Gold will continue to grow dear and human life to grow cheap.

A DISPATCH from Washington says that it has been officially announced that all the new volunteer officers above the rank of captain are to be taken from the regular army; that one captain and one first lieutenant are to be appointed from the volunteers from each state, and all the second lieutenants from the volunteers at large.

The decision of the British Indian Commission to force India to a gold standard will cause all the financial institutions of Europe to adopt stringent measures to retain their reserves of that metal. In controlling the action of the British Indian Commission, says an exchange, the gold combination scored a signal triumph. The gold from the Klondike and the increase from our own mines will not amount to a drop in the bucket compared to the Asiatic demand for that metal, now that Japan and India have entered the field as competitors.

Bimetallism will raise the level of prices in the countries where our wheat, cotton, and meats are sold. This would enable our farmers to pay their debts, improve their farms, and purchase the products of manufacturers, thereby furnishing employment and labor and prosperity to the whole country. This is Democratic doctrine. The Republican party talks about protection, and at the same time is seeking to force the American farmer to compete for gold against the ryot of India, the fallah of Egypt, and coolie of China. Which do you prefer.—National Watchman.

The remarkable growth of Japan's navy is one of the natural phenomena of the age. Even before that country's war with China its naval force was of respectable proportions; but that war so impressed upon the Japanese government the importance of formidable power at sea that a large naval budget has been allowed each year. Charles H. Cramp, the American shipbuilder, is authority for the statement that when 1903 comes Japan will have an effective force of sixty-seven sea-going warships, twelve torpedo-boat destroyers and seventy-five torpedo boats, with an aggregate displacement of 280,000 tons.

It was remarked by many present at the Columbus banquet who had heard Mr. Bryan on other occasions that this was the best speech he ever delivered, not excepting his speech at the Chicago convention. One of his happiest hits, declares the National Watchman, was when he said that the few who now wanted to "get off" the Chicago platform were the men who never were "on" the Chicago platform, and in answering those who charged that the Democratic party was like a good father who did not disinherit or disown the first-born simply because other children were born into the family; that the party is large enough to take care of issues as they arise, and would solve all problems, testing them by the principles laid down by the fathers. The spontaneity and continuity of the applause throughout Mr. Bryan's address, and the other addresses, and particularly at the mention of such names as Bryan, Towne, Williams, Teller, Tarvin and Lentz, demonstrate that Bryanism and silver are stronger today in the Buckeye state than they were in 1896, and it is safe to say that nothing less than the grossest of treachery and the basest of bribery can prevent Ohio sending a delegation of forty-six to the next national convention pledged to the renomination of Mr. Bryan and the re-affirmation of the Chicago platform.
